Power On: Improving Reliability

Every day, we're making improvements and enhancements to the electricity delivery system so the power you depend on is there when you need it.

Recently, our crews set poles and built new lines from a substation at Brown's Crossing in Farmingdale. For the 3,300 customers who receive power from this substation, the work performed will strengthen the system and reduce power outages.

We continue to improve our electricity delivery system every day to serve you better. Visit cmpco.com to learn more.

Thank you to our lineworkers!

July 10 is Lineworker Appreciation Day. Every day our lineworkers face challenges that require technical expertise and a focus on both their own safety and that of their coworkers. They make sure you have the high quality, reliable and safe power you need to power on.
